

GUIDELINES AND SELECTION CRITERIA

Arbour Scholarship - Master's (Professional or Research)

Eligibility

The master's Arbour scholarship competition is open to full-time students registered in selected master's programs at one of the following universities that partner with the Arbour Foundation: Bishop's University, Concordia University, École de technologie supérieure, HEC Montréal, Institut national de la recherche scientifique, McGill University, Polytechnique Montréal, Université de Montréal, Université de Sherbrooke, Université du Québec à Montréal, and Université Laval. In accordance with its mission, the Foundation only recognizes programs from one of the following domains – engineering, computer science, administration. It is the applicant's responsibility to check with his or her university to see if his or her program of study is eligible.

To be eligible, students must:

- have completed at least 2 full-time semesters in a Québec university in the past 12 months*. These 2 full-time semesters do not necessarily have to be in the same field of study as the master's degree currently sought out;
- be enrolled full-time in a master's program (during the fall and winter semesters following the scholarship application);
- have a university average grade of at least 75% (cumulative average of the last diploma obtained or of the last session(s) of the current diploma);

Students are eligible to receive a scholarship if they have at least two full semesters remaining in their program at the time of the first scholarship instalment (one fall and one winter semester).

*NOTE: If the university has granted a study leave (for maternity or illness), the student must contact the university to determine if he or she is still eligible for the scholarship.

Selection Criteria

Academic performance (min 75%)	50%
Valid and recognized financial need *	20%
Social involvement / leadership	20%
Research skills / and/or ability to apply prior learning and skills	10%

* Financial need is a key criterion for the Arbour Foundation. The Foundation recognizes that each case is unique and is committed to evaluating each bursary application taking into account the particular situation of each student. However, it is important to note that any student receiving an external source of funding (other bursary or family assistance, for example) in excess of $30,000 for the year of study for which he or she is applying for an Arbour Scholarship will not be awarded a scholarship.

A 30% quota is imposed on each university as to the number of international student applications that may be forwarded to the Foundation's selection committee, i.e., approximately one-third of all applications submitted (all types of scholarships combined).

Instructions to submit an application

A complete application file must include:

- The completed application form for the Arbour scholarship including consent for the privacy policy (downloaded from the Foundation's website and completed in a web browser or with Acrobat Reader – please respect the maximum number of words indicated);
- The following supporting documents:
 - ✓ Proof of Canadian citizenship, permanent residency or study permit
 - ✓ All official university transcripts in English, French or Spanish
 - ✓ Letter of support from an academic sponsor (details in the Letters of support section)
 - ✓ Letter of support from a non-academic sponsor, with no family ties to the candidate (details in the Letters of support section)
 - ✓ CV
 - ✓ List of publications (if applicable)

Applications must be submitted directly to the university where the candidate is registered. As each university sets its own procedures and deadlines, it is the student's responsibility to get the proper information. Applications sent directly to the Foundation by candidates will not be accepted nor considered. This applies to the application form, transcripts and letters of support as well as any other document sent separately to the Foundation.

Finalists are first selected by the universities from all applications received. The universities then forward the best applications to the Foundation.

The Foundation's selection committees then select the candidates to be interviewed from among the applications proposed by the partner universities. Any finalist not invited will be notified by the Foundation.

Selected finalists will be invited to an in-person interview (or virtual interview in the event of 'force majeure') that will take place between mid-August and mid-September.

Once all the interviews have been completed, the Foundation will select the finalists who will receive an Arbour scholarship. Not all finalists will receive a scholarship. By mid-September, all finalists will be informed of the decision of the selection committee as to whether or not they are awarded a scholarship.

Instructions for the letters of support

Two letters of support must be included in the application file:

- The first letter of support must be from an academic sponsor who will highlight the candidate's academic performance as a mandatory theme and, as an optional theme, his or her social involvement in an academic environment.
- The second letter of support must be from a non-academic sponsor who will discuss the candidate's merits outside the academic community.

All letters of support must be on the official letterhead of the organization and signed by the sponsor with their name, title and contact information indicated.

Value of scholarship and disbursement

The value of the master's Arbour scholarship is $20,000. Scholarships are disbursed by the university in two equal instalments – one in the fall semester and the second in the winter semester – upon presentation of a full-time registration proof. Master’s Arbour scholarships are renewable once. See guidelines for renewals for more details.

Important note for potential scholarship recipients who speak little or no French

The mission of the Arbour Foundation is first and foremost to contribute to Québec’s economic growth through education. For this reason, it is important for international and Canadian students who speak little or no French to acquire this competence to fully participate in Québec’s society and economy. The Arbour Foundation is currently working to facilitate their integration with a mentoring program, networking events and various other activities geared towards the same goal.

Since French is a key element in Quebec’s cultural integration. the Arbour Foundation wishes to encourage all the students with little or no French skills to take lessons on a regular basis. To this end, the Foundation is partnering with the Fondation pour la langue française to offer French training at various levels of fluency to its scholars.

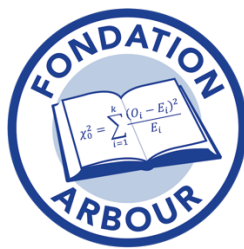

As of September 2021, the following protocol applies to new and returning scholars:

- The Arbour selection committee evaluates the French skills of each candidate during the selection interview.
- Candidates getting a scholarship whose level of French is deemed inadequate are personally notified by the Arbour Foundation. They receive the first instalment of their scholarship in the fall semester (October), but the second instalment (February) is conditional to attending on-line or in-person French lessons provided by the Fondation pour la langue française AND receiving a positive evaluation from their instructors.
- The same conditions apply for renewal applications for a second term.
- Students are encouraged to participate in weekly lessons (1 to 2 hours maximum each) during both semesters (fall and winter).
- There is no charge for these lessons, as they are fully subsidized by the Fondation pour la langue française.
- Training is offered at various levels of fluency, either in groups or individually. Lessons can take place at various times during the week, especially over lunch, to best accommodate the students’ busy schedules. The Fondation pour la langue française assigns each student to the most appropriate format.
- There is no written exam, but simply an ongoing evaluation by the instructors from the Fondation pour la langue française. This evaluation is sent to the Arbour Foundation at the end of December of the current year and again at the end of June of the following year. If the December evaluation is positive, the second instalment (February) of the scholarship is disbursed as planned. If the June evaluation is positive and, if it is possible for the student - according to the rules established by the Arbour Foundation - to apply for a one- year renewal of the scholarship, then the student may submit his/her application (Note: a positive evaluation does not grant automatic renewal; the regular selection criteria will also be applied by the Arbour selection committee).

- Should the evaluation be negative, the Arbour Foundation reserves the right to cancel the second instalment (February) and may not allow a student to submit a renewal application. In the event the payment of the second part of the scholarship is cancelled, the student and his or her home university will be notified as soon as possible. It should be noted that the Arbour Foundation makes no judgment on the improvement of the scholar's level of French and relies exclusively on the recommendation of the Fondation pour la langue française.

PLEASE NOTE: If the student decides to take a French course at his or her home university (or any other university in Quebec), he or she will not be required to take the French training provided by the Fondation pour la langue française. Their second installment will therefore be conditional on taking the French course and submitting the transcript to the Arbour Foundation upon receipt of his grade for the course.
